

AP Music Royalties Fund Acquires Catalogue of British Songwriter, Composer & Producer Mike Kintish

Zug/London, October 2026

AP Music Royalties Fund (APMRF), a fully regulated Liechtenstein Alternative Investment Fund, has acquired the publishing catalogue of Mike Kintish, one of the UK's most in-demand songwriters and a trusted collaborator for some of the most distinctive voices in pop, whose work has amassed over a billion Spotify streams.

Originally one of the creative forces behind the duo The Yeah You's, his credits include Sophie and the Giants and Purple Disco Machine's Hypnotized, a global crossover hit, certified five-times platinum in Italy and diamond in France, with multi-platinum and gold certifications across Austria, Germany and beyond and more than 400 million streams.

Additionally, he has been a key creative force behind Becky Hill, co-writing amongst others, Back & Forth, I Could Get Used to This and the single Outside of Love, from her 2024 album, Believe Me Now? He is also a credited songwriter on JoJo's Mad Love, which debuted at number six on the US Billboard 200, as well as on Armin van Buuren's Freefall and Marius Bear's Not Loud Enough. His wider catalogue spans collaborations with Ella Henderson, Caity Baser, Grace Carter and Ray BLK, including My Hood featuring Stormzy.

APMRF has been advised on this transaction by Star Music Fund and Cadence Solicitors.

"Over the past two decades, Mike has made an undeniable contribution to the global pop, dance and alternative music scene, working alongside countless artists to craft songs that connect," said Iain Maxwell of APMRF. "We've loved working with Mike during these past few months, and we're thrilled that he has entrusted us with his catalogue going forward."

Mike Kintish commented: "It has been an absolute pleasure working with the team at APMRF during the sale process, which has been amicable, transparent and collaborative from day one. They say your songs are like your children and I know that my catalogue is in safe hands."
